ALDR: Q4--Seeking Faster Path To Capitalize On '403 Opportunity

- Summary: On 3/4, ALDR reported Q4 2014 results. There were relatively few clinical updates, with lead drug ALD403's clinical program remaining on track. Data from the placebo-controlled ph.IIb study of IV '403 in chronic migraine continues to be expected 2H15, and based on prior ph.II data in high-frequency migraine patients, as well as recently-reported data from a similar agent against CGRP in chronic patients, we see high probability of '403 achieving positive results. How this study, as well as the upcoming (1H15 start) study of '403 in high-frequency episodic patients, will fit into the pivotal program, is still to be determined, but with their greater resources, ALDR appeared to be engaged in discussions on how they might creatively accelerate development--something we think will be important given the competitive landscape. We continue to view ALDR as key potential player in the future migraine prophylaxis space and see shares as undervaluing '403's risk/reward. We are increasing our valuation range to $36-39 from $34-37, based on an increase in probability of success for '403 following the recent competitive data readouts, offset somewhat by increased expected R&D spend and a modestly lower future '403 price point given the competitive/reimbursement environment. Adjusting 2015E EPS to -$1.80 from -$1.44.
- Financial: ALDR reported Q4 2014 net loss of $6.9MM, or -$0.22/share, and ended 2014 with cash and equivalents of $55.9MM. Including the capital raise of $190.7MM in Q1 2015, the company anticipates sufficient cash to support operations through 2016.

Valuation Range: $36.00 to $39.00 from $34.00 to $37.00

Our valuation range is based on applying a 40x multiple to our 2022 estimated EPS and discounting at 15%, blended with 8x sales multiple of 2022 estimated sales, and discounting at 12%. Risks include emergence of a safety signal, and competition in the migraine/RA spaces.

Investment Thesis:

We believe Alder is undervalued based on the long-term promise of ALD403 and Clazakizumab.

Company Description:

Alder Biopharmaceuticals, based in Bothell, Washington, is a clinical stage biopharmaceutical company with differentiated antibody discovery and manufacturing platform to design and select antibodies that have the potential to maximize efficacy in various therapeutic indications including inflammatory and neurological conditions. Additionally, the company's proprietary manufacturing platform, MabXpress, has potential to streamline the manufacturing process compared with the more traditional biologics manufacturing systems, potentially resulting in faster, more scalable, and more cost effective. The company's lead and wholly-owned program, ALD403, is in ph.II and the clinical data thus far supports strong treatment effect in treating migraine. Clazakizumab (anti-IL-6 antibody) is partnered with BMY and it is currently undergoing studies in ph.II for RA and psoriatic arthritis. The company has 4 additional programs in preclinical stage expected to enter the clinic in the future.
